Memo

- 1) The weekly schedule of the course is tentative. All announcements for the assignments will be delivered by the bulletin board, and it is YOUR RESPONSIBILITY to check them.
- 2) The course will be conducted in SEMINAR/LECTURE sessions. You are expected to come to these sessions well-prepared, be ready to respond to questions as required. A brief, first-time reading of each chapter ahead of a lecture allows students to better understand class materials.
- 4) There will be two non-cumulative exams: Mid-term and Final. You are expected to take all exams at the scheduled times. NO MAKE-UP QUIZ or EXAMS except for hospitalization due to serious medical reasons supported by documentation from general hospital.
- 5) The homework will be graded for effort, not for correctness. Late homework will not be accepted.
- 6) Students with more than three missing classes will receive a significant grade penalty.
- 7) Do not ask the instructor to change the grade unless there is a flaw in grading (in accordance with Anti-graft Law).
- 8) Ethics are vital to the process of education. Students must assume responsibility for maintaining honesty in all examinations. The penalty for cheating in an examination is a grade of "F" for the course.
- 9) Any electronic devices are prohibited during the class including taking pictures or recording audios (Materials and lectures in this course are protected by Copyright Law).
